

Prof. Christopher Neuhaus (Germany)

Senior Consultant Anaesthesiologist and Deputy Director, Department of Anaesthesiology, Heidelberg University Hospital (UKHD),
Finalist, Butterfly Impact Award 2026

Christopher Neuhaus is Senior Consultant Anaesthesiologist and Deputy Director of the Department of Anaesthesiology at Heidelberg University Hospital, Germany, with subspecialties in intensive care and emergency medicine. He holds an MSc in Human Factors and Systems Safety from Lund University.

As both a physician and a licensed commercial pilot, he bridges the gap between high-reliability industries and healthcare. His work centres on patient safety, simulation-based training, crew resource management and human factors in perioperative systems. He is active in several national and international societies, including the European Society of Anaesthesiology and Intensive Care (ESAIC), where he is Director of the Patient Safety and Quality Masterclass.
